Eighteen months ago, we started our new building material supply business. As with any new business there is an immediate need for trucks, office equipment and furniture, material handling equipment fixtures, inventory, etc. Before you can take your first order and process it, you have to have a phone system, fax, and computer system. For that we turned to Connecting Point. With one phone call, and a short meeting, Carl Trimble and his staff determined our needs based on our business. They took care of everything. Our computers were delivered and networked in 48 hours. Our phone system was in place two days before Bell South could connect us. Working with a tight schedule, we were officially in business in three days!

Connecting Point saved us countless hours that we spent on other issues. They quoted products and services to fit our immediate needs and to allow for our growth. While offering us a low cost up-front package, we have been able to expand with the equipment we already have in place. Our phone system, local and long distance service, internet connection, web and email hosting, and anti virus protection are all handled through their office. Service is quick and priced competitively.

You can't beat Connecting Point for all of your phone and IT needs!
